DEATH OF Mr. H. F. B. PARDON. Mr. Henry Francis Bates Pardon died at his home, three miles south of

Mr. Pardon was born on July 19, certain cure for piles. Counterfeits may be 1819, in Plymouth, county of Devon, offered you. See that you get the original DeWitt's Witch Hazel England. His father, William Pardon, owned a printing establishment in Lon-don, and there he learned the business. He came to America about 1830 and spent some time at Prince Edward Island, Boston, New York city and Washington. Near the latter place he was married on April 30, 1851, to Miss Virginia Catherine Mason Barron, of Virginis. In a few years he returned to England, where he remained until stter the civil war, when he came back to America and took charge of land inherited by his wife, as a descendant | Rupture Institute, of Colonel George Mason, of Gunston Hall, Fairfax county, Vs., who was famous as the author of the "Virginia"

Bill of Rights." Mr. Pardon was a stenographer, and while in England was for a time engaged in that work, reporting the pro-ceedings of Parliament. In this courtry he followed the same occupation, being for ten years one of the stenographers to Congress. He thus had the unique distinction of serving as such in the two greatest legislative bodies in the world. He was one of the earliest short-hand writers in this country. Mr. Pardon had relatives in this part of the country and this relationship induced the family to come to Daviess county. For the past ten years he had ived quietly on his farm near Owensboro. He was a man of many inter-esting reminiscenses and much infor mation, and made friends of those with whom he came in co tact. He always clung to certain English peculiarities of dress, the cut of his beard, etc.

Mr. Pardon leaves a wife and four children, Mrs. Isasc Kennady, Miss Emily Hanson Pardon, Francis Henry and Philip Victor Pardon. Two childen, Ebenezer and Leannah, are dead,-[Owensboro, Ky., Messenger.

THE STARS .- The planet Venue, at this time the most beautiful star in the heavens, is a morning star and is visible to the naked eye even at noon. Persons unaccustomed to the star should look to the East a few minutes after sunrise, when it is easily located. tollowing it with the eye, occasionally during the day, it can be located at noon. Before sucrise its splender is simply magnificent. It is 68,000,000 miles from the sun and its day is nearly equal our own, being 23½ hours long. Its year is 224 days and 16 hours long. Its diameter is nearly equal that of the earth, being about 7,500 miles. Hence in size it is not comparable with Jupiter, still lingering as an evening star. The diameter of the latter is 88,000 miles. The brilliancy of Venus is due to its relative nearness to the sun. Owing to this relative nearness it receives twice the amount of light and heat that we receive. The two stars rather brillian in the West, just after subset, are the planets Jupiter and Saturn. In thiconnection it may not be out of place to correct an erroneous impression that the sun does not move. The sun, the centre of our solar system, is sweeping on through space on an orbit, Henry K. Field & Co. length of which is practically indeter minable, carrying with it the entire system of planets, but not all the star-. Some of them belong to other systems Waile they, too, are moving, their vast distance from us renders them appar ently fixed, but not actually so. Even Polaris, or the pole star, is moving, and in the course of time will cease to be the polar star.

BEAR KILLED .- Linden A len, while hunting in the mountain, a few weeks ago, saw a large black bear making offand, although he was some distance away, he could not resist the temptation to have a shot at him. The effect of the shot was to accelerate the speed and Planing Mill. of bruin and he rapidly disappeared from sight. Linden came home and after relating the circumstances, be and several friends concluded to build a AND SINDOW FRAMES, MOULD trap, hoping by this means to capture the bear. The trap was accordingly built and the owners took turns in visiting it. Last Thursday was Linden's time to look after it, so taking his gun he went out early in the morning and upon reaching the pen was gratified to see the trap had been sprung, and, peering within, he saw that a large bear had been caught, and after waiting and Alexandria Fertilizer
